

Artist statement by Hiroko Wada March 24, 2021

There are many things to worry about in the world, but I always try to remember the power of art.

Dogs and cats can make our lives so much brighter, and I've been captivated by their expressiveness for years. Portraying their essence has long been a central theme of my work.

Lately, I've been experimenting with pigment and glossy paper, and I'm feeling a renewed sense of possibilities.

Bothered David

24.25×18.5in mixed media, collage on linen
2015

Smell of the summer
21×15.35in mixed media,collage on paper
2016

Rhythm in Blue 10.8×25.6in mixed media, collage on cardboard 2021

Rehearsal

12.4×16in

mixed media, collage on linen

2021

Oliver
22.24×23.1in
mixed media, collage on jute
2021

Ghosting

25.39×18.1in mixed media, collage on linen
2015

Women with a cat
20.9×14.6in
mixed media, collage on cardboard
2021

Not funny

26×19.1in mixed media, collage on linen
2015

Young and ambitious
24.4×19.1in mixed media, collage on jute
2015

